manufacturing war materials, and what will the new and large plants like that erected by the Briar Hill Steel Company do after the war is ended? Sometimes apprehension is felt less these plants become to a considerable extent idle since when the war is over the demands of this government will to some extent cease.

Those who are best informed, however, are confident that all of these plants will be driven to full capacity when peace comes. There will be immediately an unheard-of demand for iron and steel, because all over the United States capital is awaiting the day when it will be able to buy commodities of this kind with which to resume building operations. Furthermore, a very great demand from our allies across the sea for iron and steel, because the work of the states of the solution of the states of the solution of

CHICAGO GRAIN.

By JOSEPH F. PRITCHARD.

Chicago. Oct. 8.—There were many surprises in store for the average corn trader today. Some of the more conservative men figured that, foilowing the sensational recessions of Monday, and that advances were among the probabilities. There were some reactions and gains from the lowest levels, yet resting spots for the day were 2% 1916 lower.

The government was again a liberal buyer of costs. The purchases today were not made public, but they were considered large prices were bil., No. 1, 278a100; Gants, No. 1, 286a215; No. 2, 136a225; aweet potations. > Plan Reported to Buy New American Ships with Proceeds of British.

> > By Broaden Wall.

New York, October 8.—With the xception of Mercantile Marine pre-erred and American Telephone, the ferred and American Telephone, the stock market was very quiet today and without important changes in any issues. Steel stocks gave a better account of themselves than on the previous days. The public utilities were all steady and the rails held firm. There was evidence of further accumulation of American International stock. Tobaccos were not materially affected by the arrest of a few cigar men who are accused by the government of manipulating prices of leaf tobacco.

ipulating prices of leaf tobacco.

Mercantile Marine was influenced by the report that the directors at by the report that the directors at their meeting in the afternoom would make official announcement of the plan for the sale of ships held under the British flag and the purchase of new ones under the American. Nothing official had come, however, when the market closed and traders who bought the stock in the morning took profits in the last hour, thereby shading the price which at one time during the day was 41-2 points. the day was 41-2 points

No Dividends Expected.

Wall Street does not expect Marine to pay snything on the back divi-dends in the shape of cash, the rea-on being that in order to avoid Fed-eral taxes money received from the British ships will be reinvested in merican ships. It is understood that options have been taken on ships now under construction, delivery options have been taken on ships now under construction, delivery to be made at the close of the war. Wall Street was not so sure today that United States Steel is a war stock, and therefore good buying came into the market. This also encouraged stockholders of American Steel Foundries and Rallway Steel Springs, both of which companies cose rather sharply. These two commanies as well as United States Steel have book values far in excess of their market prices and are looked upon by investors as ideals in the way of good management and assets.

Objects to Selling Advice. Objects to Selling Advice.

A statistician who has distinguished people to liquidate their stocks was out again today with advice to hold nothing but rails and public service issues. This advice may be justified perhaps from his individual point of view, but patriotic investors will not dump any American stocks overboard on purely technical arguments. History proves that every war has been followed by an industrial boom, and there is no reason why this one should not be so followed.

Announcement from Washington that the tax on whisky on the new tax bill would be reduced from $8$ to $6.60 a gallon caused some buying of Distillers stock. There has been no excuse for selling the stock.

Advance of American Telephone stock to a new high price for this stock to a new high price for this movement is a logical result of the appropriate made between the company
